OVP HEALTH Recovery Center

OVP HEALTH Recovery Center

At the OVP HEALTH Recovery Center in South Point, OH, we hold ourselves to a higher standard when it comes to inpatient care and treatment for people living with addiction and substance use disorders.

We regularly and voluntarily invite intense scrutiny of our facilities and programs to ensure we're meeting or exceeding the most rigorous standards of care in the nation.

Recently, the American Society of Addiction Medicine (ASAM) and the Commission on Accreditation of Rehabilitation Facilities (CARF) examined our center with a fine-toothed comb, and awarded us with a three-year accreditation, as well as Level of Care Certifications for Levels 3.1, 3.5 and 3.7.

So, why invite such intense scrutiny when it's not mandatory? Because we view each and every patient at the OVP HEALTH Recovery Center as a member of our "family." And when a family member needs help, nothing but the highest standard of care is acceptable.

This testing should begin between the ages of 40 and 45. Women with normal cholesterol should be retested every five years. Women with changes in weight gain and diet, or who have diabetes, heart disease, kidney problems or certain other conditions, should be monitored more closely.

Diabetes Screening

After age 45, women should be screened every three years. Women who are overweight or have blood pressure above 140/80 should be tested earlier and/or more frequently.

Osteoporosis Screening

A perimenopausal bone density test (DEXA scan) of hip and lumbar spine should be undertaken by women over 50 with fractures or a risk of fractures. All women should have a bone density test done at least once at age 65 or older.

Colorectal Cancer Screening

Women under 45 should be screened if they have a family history of colon cancer or polyps, or other risk factors. Women between 45 and 75 should be screened regularly with one of the following tests:

- Fecal occult blood (stool-based) test every year
- Fecal immunochemical test (FIT) every year
- Stool DNA test every three years
- Flexible sigmoidoscopy every five years
- Double contrast barium enema every five years
- CT colonography (virtual colonoscopy) every five years
- Colonoscopy every 10 years

Cervical Cancer Screening

Women in their 20s should have a Pap smear every three years. Between the ages of 40-65, women should have a Pap and human papillomavirus (HPV) test every five years, or a Pap test alone every three years. After age 65, most women can stop having Pap smears after three negative tests within the last 10 years.

To schedule these important screenings, talk with your primary care provider. If you do not have one, providers across Marshall Health Network are accepting new patients. Visit marshallhealthnetwork.org/find-a-provider/ to find a physician near you.

SCHEDULE YOUR ANNUAL SCREENINGS TODAY

Routine disease screenings can help protect you from developing a number of serious diseases or help treat certain health conditions before they advance. The providers at Cabell Huntington Hospital, St. Mary's Medical Center, HIMG, Rivers Health, members of Marshall Health Network, are ready to assist you in scheduling the screenings that you need.

The following are recommended tests for adult men age 40 and older:

Blood Pressure Screening

Men should have their blood pressure tested every two years. Men with blood pressure exceeding 140/90, diabetes, heart disease, kidney problems or certain other conditions should be checked more often.

Cholesterol Screening

At the age of 40, men with normal cholesterol levels should be tested every five years. Cholesterol should be tested more often in men with high cholesterol, diabetes, heart disease, kidney problems or other conditions.

Diabetes Screening

After the age of 45, men should be screened every three years. Men who are overweight or have blood pressure above 140/80 should be tested earlier and/or more frequently.

Osteoporosis Screening

Men between 50 and 70 with risk factors for osteoporosis should discuss screening with their physician.

Colorectal Cancer Screening

Men under 45 should be screened if they have a family history of colon cancer or polyps, or other risk factors. Men between 45 and 75 should be screened regularly with one of the following tests:

- Fecal occult blood (stool-based) test every year
- Fecal immunochemical test (FIT) every year
- Stool DNA test every three years
- Flexible sigmoidoscopy every five years
- Double contrast barium enema every five years
- CT colonography (virtual colonoscopy) every five years
- Colonoscopy every 10 years

Prostate Cancer Screening

At age 50, men should discuss screening with their doctor. African-American men and men with a family history of prostate cancer should begin discussions at age 45. Prostate exams are no longer routinely performed on men without symptoms. However, for those who choose to be tested, the PSA blood test is done every year. Beginning at age 40, a yearly digital rectal exam is recommended.

To schedule these important screenings, talk with your primary care provider. If you do not have one, providers across Marshall Health Network are accepting new patients. Visit marshallhealthnetwork.org/healthylife to find a physician near you.

Mental Health Professionals

Psychology is the scientific study of behavior and the functions and processes of the mind. Clinical psychologists and psychotherapists are trained to evaluate and treat patients with mental and emotional disorders using behavioral methods. Social workers in the healthcare field collaborate with other health professionals in providing patient care, serve to mobilize support networks for patients and act as a link between health agencies and other community services.

PRIMARY CARE PROVIDER YOUR PARTNER IN PREVENTION

Primary care providers are not just here for you when you're sick. They're also here for you when you're well as your partner in prevention. By regularly checking for serious, chronic illnesses, they can prevent a minor issue from becoming a major one, like helping you lower your blood sugar before you develop diabetes. If you don't currently have a primary care provider, take that important step toward a healthier life and make an appointment today with a Marshall Health Network provider.

To find a provider near you, visit marshallhealthnetwork.org.
